TRUCKEE, Calif. - Aspen Leaf Interiors, a Truckee interior design studio, was notified by Mountain Living they have been added to the magazine's list of top interior designers. The list includes 125 of the most talented and influential designers in the West. The list can be found at www.mountainliving.com/article/top-mountain-architects-designers-o.

The design team of Aspen Leaf did not apply for the honor. They were notified by e-mail by the Mountain Living team they were to be featured in the 2012 Top Mountain Interior Design guide. The achievement is signified by a logo that now appears on Aspen Leaf's website.

Aspen Leaf describes their design approach with their clients as unique and personal. Each design is individually tailored to each client, and not one design is ever replicated. Their design objective is to create eclectic rooms that focus on the client's taste. Designs vary from rustic, to contemporary, to modern.

"When we design for our clients, we use their aesthetic to enhance their personal taste and point of view in collaboration with our design vision," said Marcio Decker, an Aspen Leaf interior designer.

Original artwork by Decker hangs on display in the Aspen Leaf design studio. Decker recently received his Certified Interior Designer (CID) status, and his work with Aspen Leaf this year scored him a nomination for interior design professional of the year by the Contractors Association of Truckee Tahoe (CATT).

"We've been very busy - we're currently working on over a dozen projects," said Decker.

Mountain Living isn't the only publication that has taken notice of Aspen Leaf's work. Aspen Leaf will be featured in the "Watch for" section in the November/December issue of Design Bureau, a Chicago-based design publication that is circulated internationally. The publication can also be viewed at www.wearedesignbureau.com.

Aspen Leaf has been in operation in Truckee-Tahoe since 2004, and their rise in the interior design industry is yet another accomplishment that brings pride to the town of Truckee.

Aspen Leaf Interiors is an award-winning Truckee based interior design agency that serves a clientele of both Reno, Nev. and Tahoe. The Aspen Leaf design team has produced award-winning projects locally and nationally. The Aspen Leaf design studio is located on 10075 W. River St., Suite B, Truckee, CA 96161.
